calworks manual

Changes have been highlighted in blue text. Effective July 1, 2011, adults will only be eligible to receive CalWORKs for a maximum of 48 countable months. This new 48month time limit replaces the 60month CalWORKs clock, which was implemented January 1, 1998. Staff must continue to count all federal nonexempt months of TANF assistance in all states, including CalWORKs, whether or not the month was exempted from the CalWORKs time limit as the exemptions apply differently for TANF. If the adult reaches their TANF 60month TOA and they do not meet a federal extender, the TANF timedout aid code will change to 32state or 3W mixed state and the case will be aided using state funds, providing the adult has remaining CalWORKs TOA that are under CalWORKs 48month. When the timedout adult is removed from the AU and only the eligible children remain active, the case will be funded using state funds and considered a Safety Net case with aid code 3A Timedout Safety Net All other family or 3C Timedout Safety Net two parent family. After they exhaust 24 months of subsidized child care in Stage One and Two, a former recipient may continue to receive subsidized child care under Stage Three as long as they continue to meet eligibility requirements and funding is available. It will be modified to calculate and track the CalWORKs state 48month clock, and the TANF Federal 60month clock statewide. The county receives monthly reports that include a summary and detailed list of active individuals who are approaching the TANF 60month time clock and CalWORKs 48month time clocks. These reports reflect when a client is within two and six months 42th and 46th month of the expiration of their CalWORKs 48month time clocks. For twoparent cases, the case becomes a childonly Safety Net case when all the aided adults in the AU have reached their time limit and have been discontinued.<http://lumieretvie.com/userfiles/facsaria-bd-manual.xml>

On an ongoing basis, the removal of adult from the AU and the resulting grant reduction will be effective the first of the following month in which the adult reaches their CalWORKs 48month time limit. It is considered an allowable midquarter action. The ET will only retroactively apply an exemption and thereby untick the clock if it is determined that the recipient requested and met the exemption criteria and the county failed to act timely or as determined by the Social Worker. For more information about this process refer to CalWORKs Handbook 427.7. See TOA exemption chart below. For more information regarding the specific fields that must be completed on the following data collection windows, refer to CalWORKs and Employment Newsletter 0801. Determined by Social Worker. See CalWIN How To 291. Determined by Social Worker. See CalWIN How To 291. DO NOT manually untick the time clock. The clock should untick based on the entries made in data collection and in the ES Subsystem for manual exemptions. Refer to CalWORKs and Employment Newsletter 0801 and CalWORKs Handbook 426.1 for detailed information. In Alameda County, the TEMP 2251 was added to the CalWORKs application and RRR packets. For the initial six months of implementation, the counties are required to provide a 30day NOA to cases that will be affected. This will temporarily replace the existing 10day NOA requirement. A NOA M40107 will be sent 10 days prior to the notifying adults who have reached their 48month time limit. Notice of Actions NOAs are required to be sent at application for aid, at each reinvestigation RV process, at 42nd or 46th month, at the client's or former client's request, and when a former client applies for cash aid in another state. An alert is generated and the case is flagged notifying ET that the customer has reached his 42nd and 46th month TOA. It is included in both the application and RV packets. The email should include The other state responds. http://remont-bez-zabot.ru/files/file/financial_management_for_the_hospitality_industry_solutions_manual.xml

Do not authorize until correction has been completed. The ET should complete their review prior to sending the NOA. The time clock will not stop ticking unless ESD is notified and then applies the exemption for the retro month in the ES Subsystem. DO NOT manually untick the clock. Complete manual variables. The email should include The email should include The email should include In addition, the ET will notify the receiving county if there are any exemption or extenders. The case was sent to closed files. In July 2011, the state where our former client now lives contacts Alameda County for TOA information. The caller is then referred to the Closed Over Ninety Days worker. The email should include Only out of state TOA received after January 1, 1998 will be recorded on the CalWORKs and TANF time clock. The CalWORKs 48month and countable months used and remaining will display effective July 1, 2011. For example, a person that has 50 months in June will show 10 CalWORKs months remaining on June 30, 2011 and 2 CalWORKs months remaining on July 1, 2011. In the above example, when EDBC runs at the end of May, the individual will fail for July 2011 due to the CalWORKs 48month time limit and their status for July will reflect timedout parent. However, the time clock on the Display NonFinancial Eligibility Summary, CalWORKs tab, Display Time Clock window will still reflect that there are 10 months remaining until it is actually July 2011, then it will display that there are 0 months remaining. More sessions. Can I get CalWORKs Are there other health programs Can I and a child in my care qualify What is California's Cash Assistance Program for immigrants CAPI We are just on the borderline for financial eligibility. Should I apply for SSI Child care and other support services may also be available. For more information or help applying, we recommend contacting the county, a local Legal Services program or other community organization listed in the Resources at the end of this Manual. These organizations may also be able to tell you whether there are privately funded assistance programs in your local community, too. CalWORKs replaces Aid to Families with Dependent Children AFDC, which ended in California on January 1, 1998. The income limits are based on a family's size. Some income for example, the SSI income that a grandparent or one of the children in the family gets doesn't count at all. Please check with the county or your local Legal Services about the income counting rules. Some resources, like the house you live in, clothing and household furniture, are not counted toward the limit. In this situation, the welfare department should not count the grandparents' income or resources in deciding whether the grandchild is eligible for CalWORKs or the amount of the grant for the child, see below. A minor parent must live with his or her parents to be eligible for CalWORKs, unless an exception applies. If the minor parent does live with his or her parents, the welfare department will include the countable income and resources of the grandparents in deciding whether the grandchild is eligible for CalWORKs only if the grandparents will also be getting CalWORKs for themselves. In contrast, the grandparents' countable income and resources will always be included to decide whether the minor parent is eligible; this is so even if the grandparents are not eligible or are eligible but choose not to accept a CalWORKs check for themselves.

Instead, the county will issue vendor or voucher payments for at least rent and utilities in the amount of the grant for the eligible family members. Generally, an adult may receive CalWORKs benefits only for up to 60 months 5 years over his or her lifetime. The main exceptions are for parents or other caretaker relatives who, in the 61st month, are one or more of the following: These activities may include basic education, job training, community service, searching for or even working at a job. In addition, there is a one-time exception from the welfare-to-work participation requirements in certain situations for the caretaker of an infant. In most counties, the exception applies until the infant reaches six months, but some counties limit it to three months, while others extend it to 12 months. The part of the CalWORKs check for the adults in the family will be cut out if proof of immunization is not given to the county, unless an exception applies. Exceptions are written medical reason from a doctor for not immunizing the child, the family doesn't believe in immunizations, or proof that immunizations aren't reasonably available to the family. If children 16 or over do not attend school, the part of the check for the teen will be cut. Counties may also exempt survivors of domestic violence from the immunization and school attendance requirements, or give them more time to comply. Please contact your local Legal Services if you need more information about teen parents. Can I get CalWORKs If you need help finding out where to go, contact a Legal Services or other community organization listed in the Appendices at the end of this Manual. After you turn in your application, a screening worker will review it. If the worker finds that you may be eligible for CalWORKs, you will be given more forms to fill out and another appointment will be scheduled.

The county is required to help you fill out the forms if you ask for help and to tell you what documents you need to bring in to support your application. In addition, the county must assist you in obtaining documents or other information needed from third parties. It will also be helpful if you have a written statement that the parent has signed authorizing you to receive CalWORKs for the child in the parent's absence. You'll find a sample Power of Attorney at the end of this chapter. It does not have the authority of a court order, and it will not authorize a nonrelative or distant relative to receive CalWORKs. If you are a friend, a distant relative, or a relative in a different state than the parent, it is often advisable that you be appointed the legal guardian of the child by a court. If a family is not eligible at the time of application, but it appears the family will be eligible in 60 days, the county can wait the 15 extra days to make its decision. If an immediate need check is issued, the county must process your CalWORKs application within 15 working days. Do not sign a withdrawal form because you may not be able to challenge the denial at a later time. This includes any time that you feel that your case has been unfairly denied or discontinued, that you are not receiving adequate benefits, or that you feel your screening worker or eligibility worker is mistreating you. You cannot, however, use a Food Stamps card for diapers, toilet paper, tobacco, alcohol, pet food or hot foods prepared for immediate consumption. If your grandchild or the child for whom you are caring is also getting CalWORKs, the child is also entitled to participate in the Food Stamps program. Most General Assistance GA recipients are also eligible. However, persons receiving Supplemental Security Income SSI are not eligible for the Food Stamps program.

If you are a grandparent or a caregiver who does not qualify for CalWORKs, you may still be eligible to get Food Stamps if your income is below the countable income and resources limits for the Food Stamps program. Are there other health programs Can I and a child in my care qualify MediCal can also help pay for Medicare Part B premiums for seniors and disabled people. Children who are in foster care or who are receiving KinGAP or Adoption Assistance benefits discussed below also automatically qualify for MediCal. In addition, children who turn 18 while in foster care are automatically eligible to continue receiving MediCal until they turn 21. This is so even if you have a job. Adults over 65 or of any age who are blind or disabled may also qualify for MediCal even if they work. Pregnant women may also qualify. Families with children in this program must pay a small monthly premium to participate. At present, the program only covers children, not adults. Undocumented immigrants cannot qualify for Health Families. Note, however, that there are long waiting lists for most subsidized childcare programs. If the child is none of these, then the parents must be in vocational training leading to employment, employed or seeking work, seeking permanent housing, or so incapacitated as to required childcare Category 2. What is California's Cash Assistance Program for Immigrants CAPI The money for SSI comes from the federal government through the Social Security Administration. The money for CAPI comes from the state, and applications are taken at the county. In assessing the child's impairment, Social Security considers both medical and nonmedical evidence about how the impairment affects the child's functioning in daily life. This means that not only should a child's medical record be submitted with the application, but also narrative reports from parents, child care workers, teachers, and therapists about how the child functions in daily life.

If the child's condition appears in this listing, and the family's income and resources are under the SSI limits, the child is eligible for SSI. It must determine whether the child's condition is medically or functionally as serious as a listed impairment. If it is, then the child can be eligible. If not, then Social Security must ask if the impairments keep the child from doing the everyday things most children of the same age do. We are just on the borderline for financial eligibility. Should I apply for SSI This means that if the application isn't granted until months or even years after you submit it, the retroactive award will be for all that time and can be quite large. Applications should be available at the local Social Security Offices or call 18007721213 7am-7pm. Foster care program payments are higher than CalWORKs payments. Foster care benefits last until the child turns 18, or, in some situations, until 19. Many relatives are understandably reluctant to testify against the parent; they realize that such actions could build distrust and jeopardize their efforts towards realizing family reunification. Often, the family wants to prevent the obtrusive presence of Child Protective Services. However, some of these children as well as their relative caregivers may qualify for CalWORKs, with lower benefits. It is an option started in January 2000 for certain children who have been living with relatives as Juvenile Court dependents and who the relative is unable or unwilling to adopt. However, unlike the State and Federal AFDC Foster Care programs, there is no special needs payment for a disabled child in KinGap. There is no income eligibility test for a family to qualify for the AAPP. The amount of the payment is based on the needs of the child and the circumstances of the family. Reasonable efforts have been made to provide an accurate translation, however, no automated translation is perfect nor is it intended to replace human translators.

CalWORKs provides time-limited cash benefits to families with children when one or both parents are absent, disabled, deceased or unemployed. If eligible for CalWORKs, you automatically qualify for MediCal and may also qualify for CalFresh. Learn more here. However, some basic eligibility factors are: If you are pregnant with no other children, you must be in your second trimester of pregnancy with verification of pregnancy. Because there are many kinds of deductions, you are encouraged to apply even if your income is close to the countable amount. See if you are eligible here. Tell your case worker you have an emergency. Immediate Need payments may be available to families in emergency situations while the CalWORKs application is being processed. Emergency situations may include, but are not limited to, the following: Most families have their benefits automatically deposited during the first three days of each month on a plastic debit card called an Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card. Your EBT card lets you access your benefits at Point of Sale devices in stores or at Automated Teller Machines (ATM). If you select direct deposit, your monthly benefits are placed directly in your checking or savings account at your own bank each month. Locations of Point of Sale devices and ATMs can be found here. You may log on to the California EBT Client Website or call 18773289677 to learn more. Click on the icon below How CalWORKS and Immunizations Work Together At time of application or renewal, the client is asked to provide immunization records for children under the age of 6 to verify uptodate status of immunizations. The record for that child will then be looked up in the SDIR. Upon verification of immunizations, the family is granted benefits. If the child is not uptodate at time of application or renewal, the family will be given 45 days to comply with the immunization requirement. If the family does not comply with getting the preschool children uptodate on their immunizations, one adult in family will be sanctioned. If the child is not already in the SDIR, the Human Services Specialist or clerk will enter the child into the SDIR to verify uptodate status of immunizations. Click here for the Immunization Abbreviation tipsheet. Please enable it in your web browser. You can click any of the links below to see more about a subject. You dont have to answer all of the questions before you submit your application, but in most cases, you will have to answer them in order to get benefits.
